

Background

Constructed in 1939 to house the main department store of the Lansing-based J.W. Knapp Company, the building was converted into space for state government offices in 1983 before becoming vacant in 2002.

The Project

The completed project contains approximately 101,000 sq. ft. of residential space for 23 mixed-income apartments. 10,000 sq. ft. serves as small business incubator space, and green features include low-flow plumbing fixtures, efficient MEP design, and use of durable-finish materials.

Community Impact

The historically renovated Knapp's Centre opened in 2014 and is a prominent historic Art Deco landmark contributing to the economic development of Lansing's central business district. This rehabilitation has spurred additional public and private investments of office, retail, and high-end residential space in the Lansing market.
